Stories Beneath Your Feet and Fingertips

People have always scrawled stories onto the spaces where they live. Cave paintings. Decorative friezes. Advertisements. Graffiti. Today, anyone with a mobile phone can create stories and pin them to exact geospatial location. Come learn how new “locative” works change our experience of inhabiting stories. Dr. Kathi Inman Inman Berens, U.S. Fulbright Scholar to UiB’s Digital Culture Research Group, will present many examples, then invite the audience to play a location-based story she created and set in Bergen, “Gretel from a Sudden Clearing,” based on the folk myth Hansel and Gretel.
